STREAM ADVISORY

Stream advisory issued for the “Northeast” branch of Dragoon Creek located on the very East-Central edge of the City of Eskridge. Residents and pets should not enter the stream at this time.

The Eskridge utilities department has issued a stream advisory for the above mentioned stream that travels South East out of the City of Eskridge, ultimately flowing into Dragoon Creek, in the Marais des Cygnes River Basin.

This stream advisory is a result of extremely high rainfall inundating the City’s collection system, and causing a By-Pass at the wastewater lift station. This by-pass was discovered at approx. 06:40 Tuesday, May 21st 2019.

The utilities department is monitoring the current by-pass and equipment, and will continue to do so with more rain being forecasted in the next 7days.

Potentially elevated levels of bacteria and contaminants could be present in the above mentioned stream, in areas located on the edge of the city, and areas within close proximity downstream.

The city of Eskridge will update, and rescind this advisory once conditions have returned to normal.

Sincerely,

Mike Bohn
Utilities Superintendent
